

America No Longer Appears As A Plucked Thanksgiving Turkey!

We see where some of the most liberal and outspoken democrats in the nation believe and say that "America's democracy is in grave danger."

Thanks to those liberal democrats, America has been in the throes of "grave danger" from dangerous politicians for the past half century or more -- especially any terms powered by democrats.

For a lack of calling them something better, those liberal democrats have shown in so many ways that they want to GIVE-AWAY America to any and all, without any caring or consideration what it has COST The American people in trust, hope, and treasure.

On top of that -- the likes of Hillary and her ilk have lined their pockets for quite a while from the blood and sweat of many, many Americans who have put their ALL into making us a great nation. Have you heard any apologies from any guilty liberal? Hillary?

They are selfish to a fault, and they actually expect that you might agree with them. Any who may agree with the Hillary mentality of "take everything in sight -- and leave nothing behind that may incriminate you" (or her), are swinging for the fence, and should be concerned about putting America into the "grave danger" that lacking leadership always sponsors.

It totally boggles the mind that you may see person after person on the boob-tube, reminding us that "we are in a lot of trouble," not knowing the first thing about what they are talking about or why. Rabble babble!

America has strong leadership in government today unlike any in the past 50 years. The country is moving, gaining, and influencing the world again, where for the past ten years we have given the fine presence of a plucked-goose left on a two-week-old Thanksgiving table.

Strength and unity are good feelings that all of us should work to grow. Those who cannot stop whining and complaining about why everything was "better" when we were giving away the farm -- need to be immigrants somewhere. . . but, we haven't any idea where that should be -- Maybe Mars or Jupiter. . . or how about the last planet from anywhere you can name. . . OUT IN SPACE!

Where Did The Illogical, liberal democrat "Professionals" come to exist? Either a harddown hatred, or an exaggerated tolerance (of the rest of us), is about all that they can claim as theirs.

STOP TRYING TO FIGURE OUT WHY YOU SHOULDN'T -- AND TRY TO DO YOUR PART IN MAKING AMERICA GREAT AGAIN!

In the prime of our experiences and time as a weekly newspaper editor, we dealt a lot with older and wiser citizens and readers, and they were very interesting to us.

To us, there was and is nothing more fascinating than an older man who is confident of his character, comfortable in his own skin, and has served his time, and paid his dues.

Donald Trump is an example to us of a man who has served his time, and paid his dues. He earns his keep, and he doesn't back down. If that is not impressive to you -- you are either too busy or blind. Neither lends itself to your good graces.

How many spotless characters do you know? How spotless is your own? Why would you expect perfection in someone who has been "raised" pretty much the same as yourself? You just got through saying, "you aren't perfect!" You know it, and we know it.

With the expression from those who have been in charge for way too long in the American government, that "American democracy is in grave danger," doesn't it occur to you when you listen to that -- EXACTLY who and what put us in that potential danger?

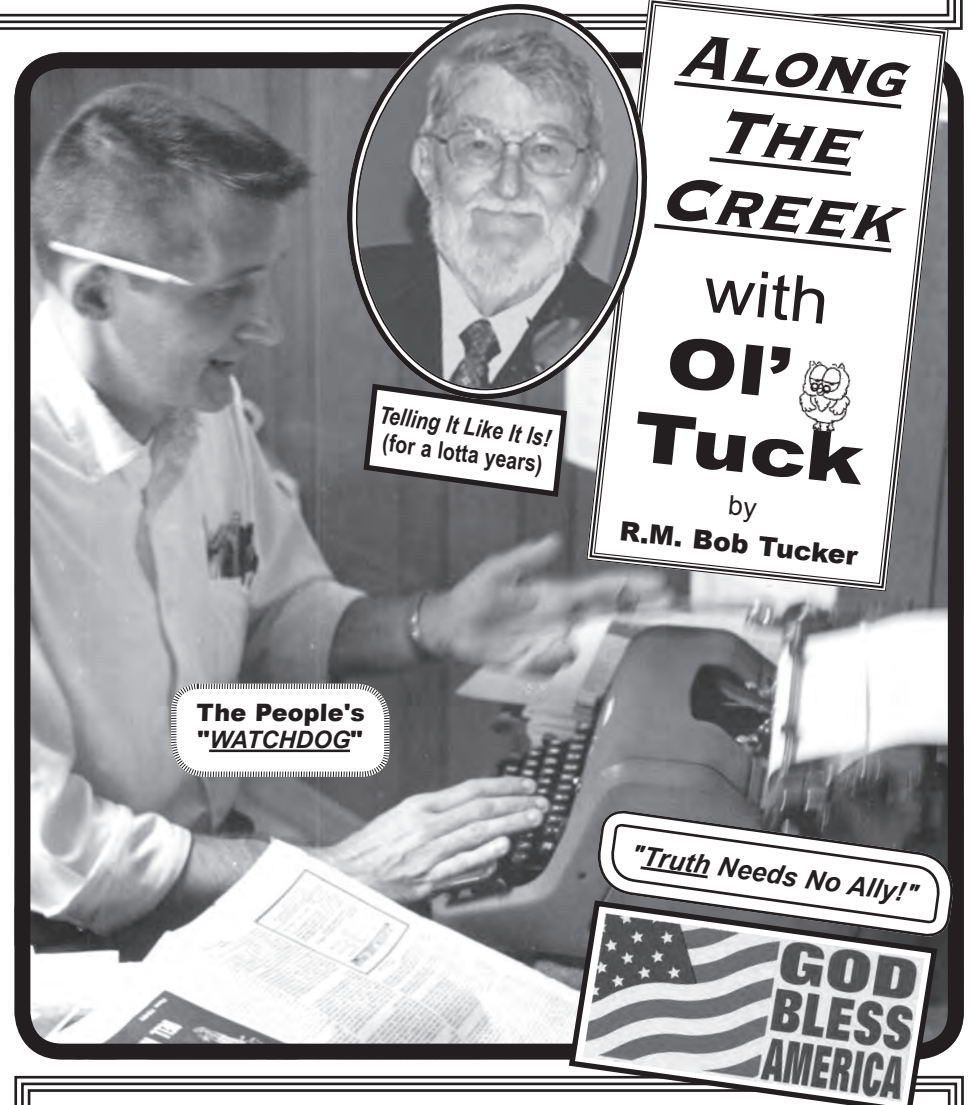

A lot of people in America think they "hate" this political figure or that political figure, and it is almost always because they disagree on philosophy and/or life in general.

Just about anyone who has been in federal government for any length of time fits into a specific category of "too much time, too much money, and too much choice-making for others than yourself."

It is heady, and it is suffocatingly intoxicating. That is where we, as Americans, are today. We are being "led" if you want to use the term so loosely" by so-called politicians who -- regardless of their party affiliation -- are guilty of making too many rules, for too many other people than themselves; and, the power that gives to the individual is unbelievably mind-boggling, and all-consuming.

Take a look at any political official and see the confusion that is there. All most of them can think of is themselves involved in the political and fanciful doings of the day. They live and breathe gossip and discontent. If they have a private life, they have to clutch it!

Do you still doubt the efforts and abilities of Donald Trump?

THE QUESTIONS THAT WE SHOULD BE ASKING are "why is our Congress so STERILE and so ABSENT?"

Our country would not have trouble with THE POLICE nor with THE MILITARY. as long as we maintain our STRONG CONSTITUTION and a Congress that "MINDS THE STORE" -- AS THE PEOPLE DESERVE

Personally, Yours. . . (WATCH OUT FOR "THE NATURE OF THE BEAST!")
The "Unconditional Love" of Some Mates, Doesn't Work The Same In The Law!

My wife and I never seriously argue about things that either seem to have no conclusion, or either, one or the other of us sees it as senseless arguing for its own sake. Is there any such thing as "sensible" arguing between a man and woman?

That may or may not be a sensible question, and it may not deserve an answer. I understand the "wondering" in such a case, but my wondering will never outweigh the "unconditional love" part of our "mating" / marriage.

Unconditional love should be enough commitment from both parties -- to make clear -- any disagreement that may seem petty or even altogether, unimportant.

If you are unfortunate enough to believe that you might "change" the party of the first or second part's mind, you have already committed more than your amount of quality effort, and it is for naught because you are expecting an ulterior motive to be your backup.

I hope Donald Trump has a better plan than this one concerning "Police Authority." The President -- in some instances-- has given the police "a blank check," and there is little doubt that they are already cashing it in. It is the nature of the beast!

That does not go down well in the Book of Getting Along, with regards to the police and The People. I have already heard some discontent in different quarters, and the base of the subject is: "After the police are given carte blanche in their efforts to "control" society -- what does The President have in mind to quell the fire in the police, once they get a taste of what could amount to TOTAL CONTROL?

This ain't Nazi Germany, and I ain't Little Lord Fauntleroy, but the apparent picture that insists upon looming on the horizon consists of US having our First Amendment, Constitutional Rights trampled under the hooves of the originally well-intended.

In our Republic -- guarded FIRST by The Constitution -- we have been able to trust our safety to LAW and ORDER. We like it that way! We don't understand "law of the fittest" because that is jungle-jive, and I, for one, am not an orangutan -- not even a distant cousin!

I DON'T KNOW WHO'S LOOKING, AND WHO AINT! WE ALL HAD BETTER BE!
